Record Locator

Receive automatic notification when offenders move into your state or when your offenders are booked into jails or prisons across the country

OffenderWatch National Record Locator consolidates and automates interagency communication about offenders from thousands of agencies, prisons and jails across the country so your state registry staff no longer struggles to collect, manage, and distribute information about offenders with other agencies.

Get alerts from other agencies when an offender is heading your way. If a registered offender is changing residence and will be moving into your state, your state and your local agencies with jurisdictional responsibility will receive an automatic alert. Users may then expect the offender, and will be able to access the historical information in his originating agency's record, to gain critical insight on the offender.

Get notified when one of your offenders is booked or released anywhere in the country. OffenderWatch Booking Alerts lets you know your offender has been arrested or released.

Save time searching or starting prosecution. Stop searching for noncompliant offenders or creating warrants and starting prosecution for offenders who are incarcerated or registered elsewhere.

Let other States know which offenders you have. Registry officers in other states will be able to locate offenders in your jurisdiction and easily contact you from within the network with additional offender information.

Search and view OffenderWatch® offender records from around the US. Find an absconder or see if an offender was ever registered in another state, then condense and refine the information.

Communicate to your local law enforcement agencies via "Special Recipient" emails. As the state agency updates a record to indicate a change of address, the local agencies will be notified of the offender's movement into their jurisdiction, streamlining the status change in real-time.

Run an Interstate Offender History Report. You will see which of your offenders are currently registered, or have been previously registered in other states. Users will also have access to the officers' information

Immediate alerts of offenders moving into your jurisdiction.

Daily updates of your offenders booked or transferring out of jurisdiction.

Online interaction with other agencies and electronic record sharing reduces calls, faxes, paper, lost information, and the risk of absconded offenders.
